Age of Heroes: The Witch Hunter's Gauntlet By Bret Schulte

"Buffy the Vampire Slayer meets Harry Potter!"

One day 14-year-old Samantha Hathaway's biggest problems are snarky cheerleaders and co-workers at the mall, and the next day she finds herself the prime suspect in the theft of a powerful magical artifact that could spark a war between magic and science.

For generations the Hathaway family has protected the world from the secret dangers of magic, monsters, and mad science. As the last heir to this proud legacy the suburban couch potato is recruited into Miller's Grove Academy, an elite new school full of inventors, monster hunters, video game champions, pop stars, and wannabe world conquerors. Between the new classes, hover board experiments, vampire attacks, and impending doom Samantha makes new friends and vicious new enemies.

Samantha and her new friends must navigate a dangerous secret world to identify the real thief, defeat a resurrected sorcerer, and stop the coming war.

Worst. Freshman Year. Ever.

From the Author
Interview with the Author:

- What inspired you to tell this story?

I am as much a fan of Luke Skywalker, Harry Potter, and Buffy Summers asthe next guy, but you have to admit it is a lot easier to fight evilwhen you have the same or similar powers as the bad guy, or at leastsome powers. I have always been drawn to the Han Solo, XanderHarris, and Indiana Jones type of characters. People without powers whostep up to deal with supernatural forces and overwhelming odds.

- Many fictional schools are centered around one or two special skill sets. Why did you decide to make Miller's Grove Academy so diverse?

I feel it makes it more like a real school. There are plenty of great books about schools where everyone is a dancer, vampire, mutant, or whatever, but I wanted to see what it would be like to bring them all together. Besides, one of the best parts about school is getting to meet people with a wide variety of interests.

- Have you put any thought into who should be cast for the movie?

Oh, lets not get too far ahead of ourselves. Still it is fun to think about. I certainly could recommend some great songs to use for certain scenes.

- What do you hope readers take away from this book?

That you don't have to be born with a special power to make a difference. Everyone has a talent that they can contribute to make the world a better place.
